THE LITTLE THINGS

"For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; and for want of a horse the rider was lost." One never gives a second thought to little things until they come up missing. But like a minute sliver of wood in our finger or a small thorn in our foot, such impediments totally dominate our thinking until they are attended to.

The Bible, places great stock in little things and little people. Little things like a mustard seed, a mote in the eye and a poor widow's last coin; and little people like a diminutive tax collector called Zacchaeus. In such light, it should not be surprising that God sent the Messiah in the form of a baby.

On those gloomy days that we all know, when it seems we are all alone and unappreciated and insignificant, it may help to remember that God's love for you and me is constant, undying, everlasting. That truth is reported in one of the littlest, but most telling Bible statements of all: God is love.

—Paul

ELDERS CORNER:

IRS PUBLICATION 526

While preparing for our trip to Nicaragua this year, it became obvious there was a misunderstanding [on the part of some people] relative to tax deductible contributions to the church. Although contributions to charitable organizations such as the church are deductible under certain conditions, there are situations where contributions are not deductible. The purpose of this article is not to give tax advice, but to bring this matter to your attention and suggest that you discuss it with your accountant or tax preparer.

Quoting from page 3 of IRS Publication 526: “Generally, you can deduct your contributions of money or property that you make to, or for the use of, a qualified organization.” In order to qualify as a deduction, “The contributions must be made to a qualified organization and not set aside for use by a specific person.” Quoting from page 6 of IRS Publication 526: “You cannot deduct contributions to specific individuals, including contributions to a qualified organization if you indicate that your contribution is for a specific person.”

Our understanding of the above quotations is as follows. Contributions to various works of the church are deductible provided the contributors do not indicate their contributions are for a specific individual. For example, your check may be written directly to the church for the Nicaragua work and can be [at the discretion of the elders] used for expenses of participants and for benevolent purposes such as the purchase of Bibles, food, medicine, etc. In this case, your contribution would be tax deductible because you did not indicate it was for a specific individual. On the other hand, if you intend to set aside your contribution for the expenses of a specific individual, please write your check directly to the individual. In this case it would not be tax deductible even if you wrote it directly to the church, because you indicated it was for a specific person.

The previous paragraph is not intended as tax advice, but is merely a statement of our understanding of the quotes from IRS Publication 526. Please consult with your accountant or tax preparer concerning tax deductible contributions to the church.
