PROVING IT

How often have you heard the remark, "They don't make 'em like they did in the old days." How much truth is there in it?

In the "proving plant" of a great merchandising house one man smashed dishes and glassware and gets paid for it. Trunks are thrown from a roof to the ground nine stories down to see whether they will break. Then there is the mattress tester.

The head of this plant has devised many surprising ways to find out how well some 35,000 products "stand the test". He is a sort of commercial detective who is engaged in throwing light on any possible flaws in the cases of goods that are sent to him to investigate.

and everybody appreciates him and his work of picking out flaws. The manufacturer appreciates him, because he points out weaknesses and gives him a chance to correct them. Consumers appreciate him because he protects their interests and makes buying safer.

Are you that sensible about religion? Do you want it continually put under the light, or under the test, to see if it is genuine, or if it could be a sort of counterfeit of the real thing God put in the world?

People believe in proving everything but their religion. The only people who do not want products proved is the counterfeit or the cheat. But in religion God says, "Believe not every spirit, but prove the spirits to see whether they are of God, for many false teachers have gone out into the world." I Jno. 4:1.

Yet again, "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good." I Thess. 5:21. The word of God is the yardstick, the piercing light that reveals, "even to the dividing of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow and quick to discern the thoughts and intents of the heart. And there is no creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and laid open before the eyes of him with whom we have to do." Heb. 4:12,13.

And so beloved, put your religion to the test.

Check the church you are in, when it started, who built it, and why it was built, what its creedbook is, its organization, and its doctrines, "to see whether they are of God, for many false teachers" are presenting their wares daily. You may be an unsuspecting victim.

Do you prove, or do you disapprove of proving?

KEEPING BUSY

"Seldom can the heart be lonely
If it seek a lonlier still--
Self-forgetting, seeking only
Eemptier cups of love to fill."
