A CORDIAL WELCOME AWAITS YOU

“I Do (But I Don’t)”

In Exodus, chapter five is the story of Moses and Aaron going to Pharaoh to deliver a message from God. In the previous chapter we’re told about the Hebrews’ reaction to Moses and Aaron telling them who sent them and the message He sent them with. Not only did God send them with a message, but He also sent them with signs to confirm the message. Notice Exodus 4:31, “So the people believed, and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel and He had looked on their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped.”

That sounds as if they had accepted what God had told them. But when Moses and Aaron gave Pharaoh the message, his action was quite different. Not only did he say “No,” he said the children of Israel were idle. He couldn’t afford idle slaves, so he decided to increase their workload. The Hebrews would now have to gather the straw with which they made bricks. Previously the straw was gathered by the Egyptians. Now they would have to gather the straw as well as maintain the same level of production of bricks. The Hebrew “officers” were in a bind. They had to tell their people the workload had increased and there was no reduction in production. After coming out of that meeting with Pharaoh, they met Moses and Aaron and told them what they thought of the situation. “Let the Lord look on you and judge, because you have made us abhorrent in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of the servants, to put a sword in their hands to kill us.” (Exodus 5:31).

It sounds as if those men wanted to accept only the part of God’s message; the part that they liked. So in essence, if asked did they really accept God’s message, they were saying, “I do (but I don’t). When we say that we want to do what God has asked us to do and we want to pick and choose instead of doing all of His will for us, are we not saying, “I do (but I don’t?)” May we encourage one another to do all those things God requires of us, instead of doing only that which pleases ourselves.
