“Will Warner’s Chapel Survive the 21st Century

If We fail to Maintain the Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace?”

Today the 66th Annual Carolina Lectureship draws to a close. Without question it has been one of the best planned and best attended lectureships in my memory. The theme was truly relevant. Each subject was of major importance to the church and to the local congregation. Each speaker, from Terry Wheeler on Wednesday morning through Neal Pollard this morning has cooperated in such a way as to present a “panoramic view” of the trials the church faces and ways in which we can scripturally deal with those trials.

As a congregation, you have cooperated in such a way as to provide an atmosphere of comfort, hospitality, Christian labor and love. That atmosphere enabled each speaker to present his lesson in spirit and in truth. So in effect, you and our speakers cooperated in this great lectureship in the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

But the speakers are going home and we will be left with the responsibility of seeing to it that this congregation survives the 21st century. We can survive if each member does his or her part; from the elders, to those of younger years and accountability. Will the church at Warner’s Chapel survive the 21st century? It will if we work to do so in the same manner in which we worked to host the 66th Annual Carolina Lectureship.

— Frank

ELDERS CORNER:

THE PARABLE OF THE SPEEDER

A parable put he forth unto them, saying: A certain man journeyed into a nearby county. As he traveled along the highway, he deliberately exceeded the speed limit. When a brother questioned him about his failure to “keep the ordinances of man for the Lord’s sake”, he responded: The speed limits are not strictly enforced, therefore I drive that which the law enforcement officer alloweth. How think ye? Shall this man continue to deliberately break the law in order that the officer’s grace may abound? The law forbids! Since “whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap”, this same man might well implore: Please stop the speeding past my front door.

Henceforth, if ye desire to bring up your children “in the nurture and admonition of the Lord”, be not one who deliberately breaks the law, but encourage your children to: “Imitate me, just as I also imitate Christ”..... “He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.” Amen?
