A CORDIAL WELCOME AWAITS YOU

FEBRUARY 27, 2011

BELIEVE IN GOD'S PROMISES

Several years ago, my son had just celebrated a birthday, “What did you get?” I heard several of his friends asking him eagerly the next morning.

“I got money from my parents and my Grandma is sending me money.” Josh, I reminded him, “Grandma didn’t say she would send you money. You can’t count on that.”

“Well, Grandma always gives me money for my birthday,” he insisted. “So I know that she will send it.” And he kept calmly claiming that money until it actually came almost three weeks later. Grandma had forgotten.

Can’t we Christians learn something from Joshua’s faith? Josh believed he had that money whether he could see it or not. Gods promises, like Grandma’s, are just as sure, just as trustworthy, even though they may not come in our time or by our agenda.

THE OLD MAN WITH TWO SACKS

“Finally, be ye all of one wind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous. Not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing; but contrariwise blessing; knowing that ye are there unto called, that ye should inherit a blessing. For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile. Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open to their prayers; but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil.” - 1 Peter 3: 8-12

A traveler one day met an old man who was carrying two sacks. One was suspended from his neck in front. The other was strapped to his back.

“What have you here?” asked the traveler. “Let me see the content of your sack.”

“I shall be glad to do so,” replied the old man, “for I have a goodly assortment. The sack that I carry in front is filled with good reports and the good deeds of others. Whatever I hear or see of good that others do I put into this bag and carry it where I can often look upon them.”

“Your sack seems to be very full. It must be quite a burden,” said the traveler.

“There you are mistaken,” said the other. “Though the sack is so full, it is not heavy. Far from being a burden, it helps me onward like sails to a ship.”

“And what do you put in the sack that you carry on your back?” asked the traveler.

“All the evil I learn of others I put in there,” said the old man, “so that it will be out of my sight.”

“It appears to be empty,” said the traveler, as he examined the sack more closely, “and no wonder, for there is a hole in the bottom.”

“I made it there on purpose,” responded the old man, “so that the evil I hear will fall out or be lost. It cannot weigh me down nor pull me back.”
