A CORDIAL WELCOME AWAITS

"ARE YOU JUST GETTING OLD?"

One of the things that some people joke about most in life is aging. One way we do this is by comparing our lives to our children's lives. All of us have had our parents say things like: In my day I walked to school up hill---both ways....or... In my day all 12 of the children in our family slept in the same bed....we took turns using one pillow...

We also joke about our increasing age with the ever popular, "you know you're old if" statements...."You know you are old... if most of your dreams are re-runs... if your knees buckle but your belt won't...or ..if you try to straighten the wrinkles in your socks and you find you aren't wearing any...."

Aging is a fact of life and no matter how long one lives, until Christ comes to claim His own, death comes at the end of aging. So, what are you doing to prepare for that part of life? Are you a Christian? Are you a faithful Christian? Or are you just growing old?

ELDERS CORNER:

“A Little Math Test”

Below is a list of numbers. Cover all the numbers with a card or your hand. Slip the cover down until only the first number shows, Say it out loud. Move the card down to reveal the second number. Add it to your previous number and then say the new total out loud. Continue to the end, each time exposing one number and adding it to the previous total. Be sure to say each new total out loud.

1000

30

1000

40

What total did you get? Unless you are very unusual, you came up with 5000. The correct answer is 4100, but for some reason, when you get 4060 and add 40 to it, it comes out 5000.

This just shows how easy it is to miscalculate. We sometimes add just as poorly in religious matters. For instance, some think that their good works will add up to an eternal home. One cannot be saved by his own goodness, he must be saved by the grace of God (Ephesians 2; Titus 2:11-14)

Others take John 3:16, Acts 16:31, and other references that mention faith and then they add them together to equal “salvation” as a total. But the Bible just doesn’t add up that way. Jesus said that man must live by “every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God” (Matthew 4:4). The Book says that in addition to having faith, we must have penitence, confession, and baptism (Mark 16:16; Acts 2:38; 22:16; Galatians 3:26-27).

As far as this world is concerned, we might get by without being great mathematicians, but our eternal destiny depends on whether we learn to accept all of God’s revelation.

Let’s not add to that word, or subtract from it in any way (Revelation 22:18-19). Let us not divide our allegiance between God and the world. Let us instead manifest a simple interest in doing what God says do in the way He said to do it (Matthew 7:21, Hebrews 5:9).
