“MISSION NOT IMPOSSIBLE”

Some of us remember the television show and perhaps others are aware of the movies that were made in more recent years called “Mission Impossible.” The basic idea was that a small group of individuals worked covertly to carry out dangerous assignments to keep a balance in the world between “the good guys” and the “bad guys.”

Last Friday this congregation sent a mission team to Nicaragua to accomplish a few tasks that are not so “impossible.” Health, clothing and the Gospel are the objectives of this mission. Providing health care enables us to tell people that we are aware that they have physical needs. Providing dresses, at least 350 of them, show that there is love involved in providing clothing for those who need it but can’t necessarily provide it for themselves. Providing an opportunity to hear the Gospel of Jesus Christ tells people we care for their souls as well as their physical well-being.

The church in Antioch sent out missionaries to share the gospel because they cared about peoples’ souls as well. We have an example as well as a command to go out into the world making disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that Christ has commanded us, (Mt.28:18-20).

Not everyone can go, not every one may be able to sew, and not every one may be able to contribute financially. But everyone can pray for the safety of the workers, the receptiveness of the hearers and the growth of Christ’s kingdom in Nicaragua. The church in Antioch was successful with their mission work and the church at Warner’s Chapel is as well. The sharing of God’s Word is a mission not impossible!

— Frank

Consider the Children

Children are precious. They were brought into this world though no desire of their own. Many are abused, used as pawns, neglected, denied, and betrayed. Such is not fair. Dr. R. F. Hertz, a British author and psychologist, engaged in a research project of wide interest. He has asked almost 100,000 children between 8 and 14 and from all walks of life in twenty-four countries to make a list of ten rules of BEHAVIOR OF PARENTS: Here is the list:

- Do not quarrel in front of your children.
- Treat all your children with equal affection.
- Never lie to a child.
- Develop mutual tolerance between parents.
- Maintain comradeship between parents and children.
- Treat your children's friends as welcome visitors in the house.
- Always answer children's questions.
- Don't blame or punish your children in the presence of children from next door.
- Concentrate on your child's good points. Do not overemphasize his failings. Be constant in your affection and your mood.

This list should cause parents to stop, look, and listen. Read over it carefully, thoughtfully, and with self-inspection and evaluation of your home. How are children treated in YOUR home? They deserve the best. God gives this advice, "...provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord" (Ephesians 6:4).

Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not." - Jer. 33:3.
